LINCOLN TALK AT HIGH SCHOOL

Poughkeepsie Man Tells Students of Some Outstanding Characteristics of Martyred President.

Richard Coons of Poughkeepsie spoke to the students of the Kingston High School this morning on Abraham Lincoln. Inasmuch as Saturday is the anniversary of Lincoln's birthday, his talk was very appropriate and contained much valuable information for the students.

Mr. Coons knows many of the humorous happenings which Lincoln participated in and which showed many of his wonderful characteristics.

Mr. Coons said in part: There are many things in reference to Lincoln that cause people to look upon his life as one of sadness without any opportunities. He was without the advantages of the opportunities offered to us of today in many ways, and he had no educational advantages as far as school was concerned. Nevertheless, he had other advantages that we never have had.

He had a thousand things to be grateful for not having. He knew only a few books, but he knew them, while we have so many that we don't know anything about them.

Lincoln had a great teacher, his step-mother. She said of him, "Abraham gave me a cross word."

What made Lincoln great? First of all, he had the power to see into the heart of anything. He could see farther into a thing than any living man has ever been able to.

He cultivated this advantage by always looking straight into things. He knew the books he had and used the finest language the country has ever afforded.

Asop's Fables helped him to answer many complicated questions. He wasn't afraid of being out-classed. He exhibited this trait when he chose his cabinet, inviting in men who had been prominent in the presidential nomination of 1860.

The Republicans sent a committee to tell Lincoln that they thought he ought to change his cabinet. However, Lincoln proved too witty for them and their call never did any good.

Lincoln was possessed of a wonderful simplicity of language which has never been known to have been possessed by any other man. His speeches before election were never long, but always expressed the true facts in the simplest, plainest language.

Lincoln was always interfering with executions in the army. The executions were always on Friday and Lincoln said he never slept on Thursday night. He was always thinking.

"That boy is worth more above ground." One time a woman appealed to him to save her son from execution. She did not know where he was stationed in the army, so in order to save the boy, Lincoln, ordered no more executions in the U. S. Army until word was received from him.

The death of his mother back in Illinois was the first sorrow Lincoln knew and it was this that gave him the kindly spirit which left the White House door always open to ready to receive all who came.

No man ever bore so much from others as did Lincoln. He was forever being troubled by Rosecrans and McClellan, two of the Union generals. There was always some reason why they shouldn't obey an order.

He had men in his cabinet who thought themselves of a higher class than Lincoln and imposed upon him in many ways, but he handled them all in the same way.

In all countries, men erect monuments and statues to Lincoln. It is their duty to erect the greatest monument of all, by embodying his spirit within us. You can't be Lincoln but you can follow his wonderful principles.

He was great because of his sympathy and his power to see things in the right light.

It is a great thing to be allowed to live in such a glorious country as this and we ought to be proud to think that such a man as Lincoln was once the chief executive of our land.

THINK RUPP GOT POISON IN ERROR

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 11.—Lieutenant D. A. Rupp, U. S. A., whose death was found in his quarters on Langley Field, drank poison by mistake, according to a theory advanced today by Col. Hendry, commanding officer, following an inquiry into Rupp's death by six officers of the aviation corps. Rupp was under orders to proceed to Knoxville, but two representations of his father, he was allowed by the war department to remain here a few days before the date set for his departure. Rupp was said to have trouble on his mind and contemplated suicide from the army.

Rupp's home was in Pennsylvania. He was the principal in a sensational stock market upon his wife in her hotel room in December. Rupp had said that his wife had been beaten by an unknown man and woman, but later admitted that he alone was responsible for the attack.

The water board held its regular meeting Thursday afternoon at the city hall but only routine matters were taken up.

SNOW AFFECTS ALBANY STRIKE

Hamper Jumps And Tracks Must Be Cleared But Storm Also Keeps Crowds From Gathering.

By Telegram to The Freeman. Albany, N. Y., Feb. 11.—Albany, Troy and vicinity cities, felt for the first time today the serious effects of the tie up of trolley traffic by the strike on the lines of the United Traction Co.

With a snowfall of more than six inches during the night, riders which have served trolley cities since the strike began two weeks ago, disappeared from the streets and people were forced to walk to work by the thousands.

State troopers appear to have command of the strike situation in both Albany and Troy. Quiet was reported about the car barns at North Albany and Lansingburgh.

Strikebreakers in charge of snow plows are making a desperate effort to clear the tracks to permit the double operation of cars today. Minor cuts in the electric feed wires reported during the night have already been repaired and resumption of service is expected some time during the day.

Operation of cars is expected to be attempted some time during the day from the Quail street barns of the company which serve the residential district. Crowds which gathered about the barns have largely been driven away by the snow.

The movement of sixty troopers in South Troy, the scene of the worst rioting so far during the strike, was accomplished during the early morning without incident.

12 PRISONERS PLEADED GUILTY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

The January term of county court, which ended Thursday afternoon so far as trials and pleas of prisoners were concerned, was remarkable in the number of criminal cases disposed of without jury trials. The criminal calendar for the term contained sixteen cases, all of which were moved for trial by District Attorney Traver. In four cases, attorneys for the defendants moved the cases over to the March term of court. In each of the other twelve cases, the defendants pleaded guilty. In only one case was a jury empaneled, and after it had been selected the defendant decided to follow the example of other prisoners by pleading guilty.

In addition to the twelve cases disposed of by pleas of guilty, two other cases were also disposed of in each of which a plea of insanity had been entered, and in each of which the defendant was found by a commission to have been insane at the time of committing the crime. The practical unanimity displayed by pleading guilty promptly is a matter of which Ulster county ought to be proud and thankful.

RAILROAD HEADS VISIT HARDING

By Telegram to The Freeman.

St. Augustine, Fla., Feb. 11.—Mrs. Warren G. Harding will begin her Florida vacation today. She is expected to arrive here this afternoon.

The president-elect will abandon his swarm of visitors for a time in order to meet her at the station.

Mrs. Harding has only one member of the cabinet to select, her social secretary.

The most probable candidate, according to information here is Mary Harlan, of Washington, daughter of the former justice of the supreme court of the United States.

Among the crowd of visitors, which jammed the Harding reception room today was Martin Gillen, formerly assistant to John Barton Payne. Considerable significance is attached to Mr. Gillen's appointment at the presence here of a dozen big railroad executives and of J. Davies Warfield, of Baltimore of the Association of Railway Securities Holders. Mr. Payne now is acting as director general of railroads and the railroad executives. It is known, are extremely anxious that some arrangement be made by the Harding administration by which money due to the roads from the government may be paid without delay.

Baptist Men To Meet

By Telegram to The Freeman.

The Barren Class of the Wards Street Baptist Sunday school will entertain the men of the church at a banquet in the chapel on Ward Street this evening at 8 o'clock. Speakers will be served promptly at seven o'clock and the ladies of the Philadelphia Class have provided an excellent meal. A fine program has been provided and the Barren Class members will furnish music. It is hoped that in spite of the storm all the men of the church will turn out at arrangements have been made for at least one hundred diners.

Teacher For His Gun

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Norfolk, Va., Feb. 11.—With 1400 pieces of target material, including several sectional targets, which are to be used by the Atlantic fleet in gun practice on Cuban waters, the U. S. S. "Albatross" sailed from here for Guantanamo at dawn.

BROCK ORDERED TO MATTEAWAN

James Desmond Given Chance to Re-state Alleged He Took From Kingston Baseball Team.

Howard Brock, who killed Harry H. Kidder while trying to escape from him at Elmville on August 19 last in order to prevent being returned to the State Custodial School at Rome, N. Y., from which he had escaped some time before, was committed to the Matteawan State Hospital for Criminal Insane, by Judge Joseph M. Fowler in county court Thursday afternoon.

After his indictment for manslaughter in the second degree, Brock interposed a plea of insanity and a commission was appointed composed of Andrew J. Cook, Dr. E. D. B. Laughran and Dr. E. E. Norwood who reported that at the time of killing Kidder, Brock was laboring under such a mental defect as not to know the nature of his act, that he is still laboring under such defect, and recommending that he be confined in some institution.

At the opening of court Thursday afternoon, District Attorney Traver moved to confirm the report of the commission and for an order committing Brock to the Matteawan State Hospital for Criminal Insane, to be confined there until such time as he shall have been restored to sanity, and then to be returned to the custody of the sheriff of Ulster county. Brock's attorney, Frank H. Finn of Middletown, was not present but was represented by John W. Eckert, through whom he concurred in District Attorney Traver's motion. Judge Fowler granted the motion.

Desmond to Make Restitution

District Attorney Traver moved the case of the People against James Desmond, who was indicted for grand larceny in the second degree, in having appropriated about $70 of the funds of the Kingston Baseball Club last summer. Desmond was arrested on his return to Kingston on New Year's Day and has since been in jail. Through his attorney, Newton H. Fessenden, he pleaded guilty.

In answer to the usual questions, Desmond said he was a laborer, 33 years old, was born in Rosendale, lived in Kingston, can read and write, is unmarried, his mother is living, his habits are temperate, he had been convicted previously of disorderly conduct, had had opportunities for religious instruction in the Catholic denomination.

In asking leniency for Desmond, Mr. Fessenden said he was willing to make restitution. The damage caused by Desmond had not caused anyone severe inconvenience, the men who composed the baseball team having been deprived only of a small amount of money apiece. Desmond was the only support of his aged mother, who had lost her employment January first. He had $40 to pay to the men who had been damaged, and would pay the balance at a certain rate per week if given the opportunity, which the men whose money he had taken were willing should be given to him.

District Attorney Traver said that on account of the age of Desmond's mother, he was inclined to give Desmond another chance, although he had not taken advantage of his opportunities in the past, and had not profited by his experience with the police. Mr. Fessenden had stated that Desmond's mother had managed to save about $100, and Mr. Traver thought she should not be permitted to use any part of the small sum to make restitution for the son.

Judge Fowler said it was evident Desmond should look after his mother instead of allowing her to look after him. He would adopt the suggestion that had been made and allow Desmond to earn money with which to make restitution, but at the same time he must not neglect his mother whom he apparently had neglected in the past. He would suspend sentence until next term of court, Desmond meanwhile to be paroled in the custody of the sheriff, and to make restitution by his own efforts.

Court adjourned to February 22 at county court chambers for the purpose of hearing arguments in appeals from justice's court and the city court in criminal matters.

Inspection Car Wrecked

Engine No. 26, combination private locomotive and inspection car, having on board four officials of the Ontario and Western railroad, was destroyed by fire at Liberty after it had collided with a cable car just after crossing a trestle. Officials on board were General Manager J. H. Noble, Francis J. Scott, assistant general manager, W. L. McQueen, superintendent of the southern division, all of Middletown, and C. R. McManis, general freight agent of New York city. It is believed a store on the cable car turned over starting the fire. None of the occupants of the engine were injured.

Race To Stay For Prisoner

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Prison, Feb. 11.—President Kaher of the Barren government has decided to remain in the solitary but in making a way out without loss of privilege because of the Barren government's acquiescence in the allied disarmament demands, said a Munich dispatch to the Associated Press.

Shocks Calloway

Albert A. Brown of 1401 Belmont street and killed a large contingent in Cedar Swamp near Strands Brook. The car had caused much excitement in the neighborhood and many people had been driven from the woods by its approach. The car contained four men and a half ton of bombs and would have caused a riot.

"LULU" WILL BE AT THE DINNER

Also Al King and Balfe's Orchestra Will Furnish Music Between the Acts at the Retailers' Dinner.

Al King will sing at the banquet to be held at the Eagle Hotel on the evening of February 21 by the Retail Branch of the Chamber of Commerce and will also lead in chorus singing.

Familiar songs will be on the song sheet that Al is making up for the occasion and which will be attached to the menu cards. Instrumental music will be furnished by Balfe's orchestra, augmented by additional players.

In addition to all this the members of the entertainment committee have saved their lives by persuading the peerless leader of The Only Quartet to sing "Lulu," that tenderly sentimental composition that is perfect in both words and music and that uplifts the finer sensibilities of all who hear it that it usually leaves the entire audience in tears.

The ticket committee is at work today and tickets are going off as such a rush that it may not be necessary to cut the price to $2.50 in order to dispose of "what's left" of a clearance sale.

At The Theatres

Keweenaw tonight and tomorrow, "Humorogue," one of the big photo dramas of the year in its sincerity and heart appeal. Opera House—"The Revenge of Tarzan," jungle and animal action. Auditorium—"The Woman Game" with Elaine Hammerstein. Also a comedy farce, "The Marriage Game" and "Trade 12."

"East is West," romance in three acts, at the Opera House, tomorrow night. It is heralded from other theatres as an amusing and charming play. Plenty of snail shell.

Will Remove Buildings

The city treasurer's office at the city hall will be closed Saturday, February 12, Washington's birthday. No taxes will be collected on those days.

Cables Were King

London, Feb. 11.—King George today gave an audience to Sir Auckland Geddes, the British ambassador to the United States. The conference lasted twenty minutes.

FRENCH SEEK HARDING AS ALLY

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 11.—The Petit Parisien, in a column article on the first page today urged Premier Briand publicly to address President-elect Harding on Franco-American relations immediately after March 4, explaining that France can not renounce the League of Nations because it is linked too closely with the treaty of Versailles, but announcing that France is ready to examine and doubtless will approve any American amendments.

The Petit Parisien expressed the hope that the United States will ratify the treaty and league covenant and "refrain attempt to avoid responsibilities."

"France does not demand the impossible from Germany," explained the newspaper, adding: "We seek America's aid for a world revival of peaceful commerce and good will."

According to the Petit Parisien, the government has judiciously advised M. Jusserand, the French ambassador at Washington, to take measures to combat the statements attributed to Bernard M. Baruch and Thomas W. Lamont, in opposition to the Paris decision on indemnity.

The newspapers expressed the fear that the indemnity decision of the later Allied supreme council may prove fruitless unless American aid by extending credits.

MONKEY THAT LOST GLAND DIES

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 11.—"Le Docteur," the monkey which furnished the gland that was recently transplanted to the body of Arthur Evelyn Luard, a 70-year old Englishman, suddenly reeled over in its cage today and dropped dead.

Dr. Serge Voronoff, who conducted the rejuvenation operation and who had made a pet of the monkey said he could not explain the Simian's sudden death as it had been unusually frisky and apparently had not been affected by the loss of its gland.

An autopsy was held to determine whether the death of the monkey was caused by the operation or stomach trouble.

The only effect the monkey apparently felt from his surgical experience was a tremendous increase in appetite. He devoured large quantities of food of every kind.

Mr. Luard and his beautiful young wife are preparing to return to London at the end of this week. Mr. Luard said he felt very spry and youthful and was sure that the good effects of the operation would be lasting.

"Le Docteur" will be buried with fitting ceremonies. An American amusement manager had offered Dr. Voronoff a large sum for the animal for exhibition purposes.

SONG ABOUT YANKS STIRS PARISIANS

His Wilson and Doughboys and Police Suppress It As Needless Result But Popular Clamor For It.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 11.—A storm of protest was aroused in theatrical circles today by a police order forbidding a comedian at the Olympia, one of the biggest music halls in Paris from singing "Messieurs Les Americains," on the ground that the song is a needless insult to France's allies.

The song tells of the brave charges of the Americans at the Polio barracks in Paris and declared that the Americans were the war at the Olympia to the tune of a jazz band. It goes on in what was intended as a comic vein to say that while the French bought Chopin's music, the Americans bought the Alamo river, that saw bloody fighting, and the Americans played with the girls in Paris.

There is another paragraph which says: "Why don't you (the Americans) do one less action? We (the French) don't owe you anything, and anyhow you are already rich."

The song hits especially at President Wilson, but praises American Red Cross nurses and the Americans who adopted French war orphans.

The theatrical magazine, "Paris Music Hall," says that the song was loudly applauded and demands that the police lift the censorship. The publisher of the magazine is advertising it as a piece of music that is banned by the police that is popular in the city by arousing the public's curiosity.

Charming Plans Afloat Here

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Paris, Feb. 11.—Premier Georges Clemenceau contemplates a visit to the United States, after his return from India if his health permits. Letters received from the ex-president today said he is expected to arrive home about March 17. He is able to make the American journey he will continue in China and Japan from the United States, thus completing a visit to all parts of the world.

COLUMBIA SHIRT COMPANY TO ERECT LAUNDRY AND MOVE OFFICES HERE

For the Present They Will Install Laundry Facilities in Factory Corporation Building and Use 75 Men to Do Work Now Done in Poughkeepsie.

The Kingston Factory Corporation has leased the second floor of its building on Cornell street to the Columbia Shirt Company for a laundry. The company intends to install a modern laundry fully equipped for laundering the product of their large shirt factory which is located on O'Neil street and when the laundry is placed in operation 75 men will be employed. It is the intention of the officials of the Columbia Shirt Company to eventually build a laundry and move their entire stock rooms and offices here, maintaining only a single room in New York city.

At the present time the laundry work is being done principally by a concern in Poughkeepsie.

An electric elevator will be installed by the factory corporation for the handling of the large quantities of material which will be required by the Columbia people.

POLISH HALL TO BE BUILT

Sick and Aid Society Plans Erection of Meeting Place on Delaware Avenue to Cost From $25,000 to $35,000.

The Polish people are going to erect another big building on Delaware avenue. This time the Polish Sick and Aid Society, or "The Sacred Heart of Jesus and the Sacred Heart of Mary," is the organization behind the project and a lot on Delaware avenue facing Third avenue has been bought of Casper Nichols. This lot is 50x100 feet and on it will be constructed a two story brick hall 48x88 feet, work to start as early in the spring as weather permits.

The society feels that a place for young men to gather is needed in this section and the new hall will contain pool tables, a reading room, dance hall and will also be used for all sorts of community meetings, besides the regular meetings of the Sick and Aid Society.

The society has a good start as far as funds are concerned toward the erection of the building which is expected to cost between $25,000 and $35,000, and will conduct a canvass shortly to raise the balance.

Another Big Snow Storm

Another big snow storm broke over Kingston Thursday night, and this morning the ground was covered with a heavy blanket of snow. Early in the morning the snow turned to rain, but the weather grew colder and the rain again turned to snow, which fell throughout the morning. The city had the snow piled out on the adjacent streets and at several dangerous points.

WASTRELS OF VIENNA REBUKED

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Vienna, Feb. 11.—Stern rebuke to the people of Vienna for not making adequate efforts to better their condition, was printed by the Neue Freie Presse today.

"A few thousand of the population of Vienna are drunk with luxury while huge masses of the people are living in direst want," said the newspaper. "Austria is stricken and in need and there is no occasion for a part of the population to copy the behavior of the countries that conquered us."

The newspaper pointed out that the people can expect neither sympathy nor aid when Vienna shows such a picture of license and indulgence. This disposition, continued the paper, is eating the heart out of the capital, while the mass of people appear to be doing very little to help themselves.

"Our monetary standard is like a corpse where the flies collect," said the newspaper. "The middle classes of Vienna have a genuine case, but the rest of the community has become accustomed to living on the world's charity. The country is undoubtedly in a hopeless condition but the Austrians themselves are largely to thank for this state of affairs."

Beautiful Tropical Plants.

Most plants in the tropics have two growing seasons and millions of seedlings start, but few ever get sufficient sunlight to develop beyond the first stages of plant growth. But the one that does can almost be seen to grow. Their upper leaves are all on a level and show with the most beautiful tints. The branches of the different trees are so interlaced that it is impossible to distinguish which leaves and fruit belong to which tree.

THE 50-CENT SERVICE CHARGE

About 5:30 p. m. yesterday (Thursday, February 10, 1921) one of our consumers called us on the telephone asking for an explanation of item No. 5 (Commercial Expense) as shown in "Computation Statistics" in the advertising of yesterday. The information was promptly given over the phone. Believing that a great many of our customers would be interested in the information we are glad to give it today. The following is taken from the uniform system of accounts for Gas Corporations as ordered by the State of New York Public Service Commission, Second District:

WAGE INEQUALITIES

Under the national agreements which the director general of railroads made with labor organizations while the roads were under government control, railroad employees began to receive wages which at that time proved burdensome to the railroads and which have amounted to one of the most serious of the transportation problems since the government ceased making up deficits through the sale of bonds.

Cases of employees who have received large sums for work never performed are being shown in abundance to the Railroad Labor Board, which is being asked to decide in favor of agreements between individual railroads and their own employees, in preference to the national agreements whose continuation is being urged by representatives of the various railroad brotherhoods.

Extraordinary results have been produced by the national agreements. For instance, a machinist on the Santa Fe for seventy-seven days performed the duties of a night roundhouse foreman while the foreman was sick. The foreman's pay for that time would have been $665, but the machinist for substituting for him received $921. Four car men on the same road were sent out on the line to do a piece of work that took four hours, and thirty-three minutes, but the company was compelled to pay these men for 112 hours' work.

The public pays these bills. The rates came in existence during the war. They resulted in the payment of many millions of dollars for work not actually performed. Wartime abuses were overlooked by the American public on patriotic appeals that "speeding up" was necessary to win the war, at any cost. Now the war is over and other business enterprises are resuming a normal condition, but so far as railroad work is concerned under the national agreements it is apparent that men in other industries who are being paid only for the time they actually work must pay the favored railway workers for work which the latter do not perform.

Outrageous and indefensible results of the operation of the national agreements is due to the fact that the national agreements apply throughout the entire country regardless of differences in local conditions. A rule which is fair on a railway in New England may be wholly unfair on a railway in Oklahoma or Arizona where local conditions are entirely different. There can be no defense of agreements which result in one class of employees getting millions of dollars a year for work not performed from people who get paid only for the work they do perform. It is the working people who support the railroads whose revenues are derived from people earning their living by hard work that is paid for on the basis of actual hours of labor.

A western college professor is believed to have taken his life in order to demonstrate his theory that the dead can communicate with the living. If successful, he will have the satisfaction of having established the truth of his theory, but in the spirit world where apparently he has only a few friends, what enjoyment will he get out of his experience? If he is right, his earthly friends will have slight trouble in avoiding troublesome gloating to which he might wish to devote himself; from the land of spirits it will be a lot harder work to remind them he knew what he was talking about than in the flesh it would be to say, "I told you so." If he fails, he will be unable to enjoy continuation of the companionship of men and women with whom formerly he argued over spiritual matters. It is safer to continue arguments of the kind the professor has been having from the advantageous position of an actual earthly mortal than from the questionable realm of an unknown spirit world.

One of three women jurors in the trial of a libel lawsuit in England several days ago spent the afternoon session in knitting. Neither counsel nor the judge presiding at the trial made any remark. In the "Tale of Two Cities," Charles Dickens immortalized the woman who knitted and full information in her work. It is conceivable that knitting might be a most desirable occupation for some women jurors. It requires that the eyes be directed most of the time on the object she is making and thereby prevents distractions which come from the commotion which is more or less apparent in every court room during the trial of a case. If she is sufficiently familiar with the operation so that it becomes mechanical, she can concentrate her mind on the testimony of the witnesses more effectively than a person who is studying the faces or clothing of spectators, or whose attention is devoted to anything except the case on trial. Until women are permitted to serve as jurors by an amendment to existing laws, for which there is no demand on the part of either men or women in New York state, the success of the knitting system will not be known to the people of Ulster county.

PUBLISHING COSTS STILL INCREASING

And Advertising Rates Have Lagged Far Behind—No Possibility of Lowering Them, Declare Head of A. N. P. A.

By Telegram to The Freeman.
Harrisburg, Pa., Feb. 11.—Publishers' costs have increased 75 percent in the last two years and newspaper advertising rates have advanced less than half that, according to J. T. Williams of Pittsburgh, president of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, who addressed the Pennsylvania Associated Dailies here yesterday.

Williams stated that newspaper publishing costs were at the very highest point today, and are still increasing. Under such circumstances, he said, there was no possibility of decreasing advertising rates. Such rates, he said, were far too low before the war and in the past few years have not increased in proportion to advancing publishing costs.

Williams pointed out that publishers, instead of being able to reduce wages, were being called upon to make substantial increases to the employees, running from 20 to 30 percent. There can be no hope of reducing wages of skilled labor, such as newspapers require for years to come.

Although spot market prices for newspaper are softening, Williams declared the contract price was six and a half cents a pound for paper, the highest in 25 years.

"Advertisers who know newspaper conditions are not asking for a decrease in advertising rates," Williams said. "They know that at present rates their advertising space is the cheapest commodity they buy."

OUR DAILY PATTERN.

An "Easy To Make" Apron.

2785—This model is nice for seersucker, gingham, lawn, percale, drill and jean. The body portion is finished with strap ends that are crossed over the back and fastened to the front at the shoulders. In this design, all waste of material is avoided, and the garment is cool, comfortable and practical.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 22-24; Medium, 24-26; Large, 26-28; Extra Large, 28-30. Size medium requires 3 1/2 yards of 26-inch material.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in coin or 1c and 2c stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Rondout, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

FIND CURIOUS RACE IN MEXICO

Tribe Numbering 20,000 Is Said to Be Descended From the Germans.

OPPOSITE TRUE, SAY NATIVES

They Tell Berlin Ethnologist That the Germans Are Descended From Them—Worship Old Gods and Offer Up Sacrifices.

Monterey, Mex.—It is a fact not generally known even to many ethnologists that there is a tribe or nation of about 20,000 people in Mexico who are said to be descendants of the Germans. According to the legends of these aborigines, however, the Germans are descendants of the Miceca, which is the name of the tribe. They inhabit several districts of the Isthmus of Tehuantepec. An investigation of the Miceca was made some years ago by Dr. William Bauer, a noted ethnologist of Berlin. He lived for several years among the different Indian tribes of Mexico and studied their history, habits and customs.

"The Miceca are rather low in stature, and besides they are somewhat deformed," said Doctor Bauer on the occasion of his recent visit to Monterey. "The hips are broad, the faces flat and their movements are very awkward. Their hair is black, falling over their shoulders. The men wear their hair as did the Spanish priests, with shaved crown and as long as possible on the sides. They are conservative in their customs, manners of living, and above all, their language. This is still extraordinarily pure, although very hard to learn and disagreeable to hear."

"Some of these people are fair-haired and have a light skin. For this reason they were said to be the descendants of the Germans. In nearly every Mexican history is found this tale, but when I asked them of their origin, they said that they were aborigines of this country. Several of the more intelligent said that, on the contrary, the Germans were descendants of the Miceca."

Worship Their Old Gods.
"Like all other tribes they are very superstitious. They still worship their old gods and offer them up to this day sacrifices in the fields, on the hills and on the rivers. I visited several places where I found the remains of sacrifices, such as fowls, small dogs, bread, chocolate, eggs and fruit. Certain villages have their idols hidden in places known only to the oldest men of the tribe."

"But the most interesting of the tribes in Mexico are the Zapotecs, who are at present situated in nearly the whole south of the country and especially in the State of Oaxaca. They number about 300,000 people. These people are strong, of large proportions physically, are very handsome, generally good laborers, and intelligent. They live in small straw huts, each having one room."

"If any nation of Indians in Mexico has a social and political future it will be the nation of Zapotecs. Benito Juarez, the famous Mexican reformer, was a Zapotecan and was born in Zimolotlan, near Tlalima, in the mountains of Oaxaca."

"The question of the Mazatecos tribe is one of the most interesting and difficult problems. I find that, for instance, when questioned, they say that in olden times they came from the North, but they were unable to tell from what part of the great North they first marched. They have legends which are to the effect that they passed over the Colorado river and when they came to Mexico City they settled first in the state of Vera Cruz, where they had repeated battles with the Aztecs, the founders of Mexico City. In these battles the Mazatecos were driven over toward the eastern coast in the state of Vera Cruz. This country has been held by the once powerful nation until this day."

They Are Wary of Strangers.
"It is difficult for a stranger to travel through their country owing to their extremely superstitious and suspicious ideas. They worship idols, but these they keep buried, and new ones are made each year. This nation in particular has one old custom in connection with its idols. The shell of an egg is taken and, being broken into seven pieces, it is wrapped in seven pieces of cotton cloth. Along with this are seven pieces of bark, red and blue feathers, and seven grains of corn. These charms, bound together, are placed one at each corner of every person's tract of land. This will assure a plentiful harvest and will also secure the Indians from injury from personal enemies."

"There are seven gods worshipped, and the eagle, tiger, crocodile, parrot, and serpent are among them. The five animals are worshipped, and the images made are buried, and the people of the tribe are ashamed to have strangers know of this form of worship. I was shown a number of the stone idols which sacrifices to the seven gods were offered. Every village has the seven gods, but each village has in addition one or a special god. It is said in Chichewa that in the church there is a trained serpent and this is the chief god of the village. The people who constitute the nation have a reverence for the serpent, which is not shown toward any of the other gods."

Injuries by Falls.

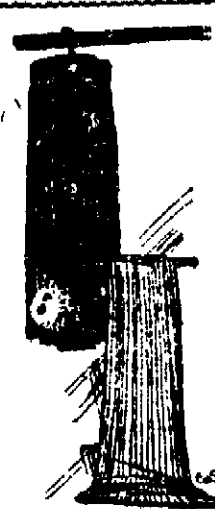

The greatest number of deaths charged to any one accidental cause, 21,114 or 148 per 100,000 in 1919, was falls. The rate for this cause varies but slightly from year to year.

New York.—Miss Phyllis Mimi Kennert, an art student of White Plains, N. Y., whose application for citizenship was held up some time ago by Justice Addison Young of the Supreme court because her father was a Japanese, although her mother is an American, with, withdrew her application when a federal agent appeared before her and announced the government would not permit a person of Japanese origin to be naturalized.

The case of Miss Kennert, who was graduated from the White Plains high school two years ago with high honors, has attracted wide attention in her slender country. Her mother is a well-known school teacher in this city. Her father is now in Japan where he has been since she was one year old, while she lived here—first in London.

STAND AND WALK IN COMFORT

Can you stand for an indefinite time without experiencing any discomfort? When you walk, do you have pains in your back and legs, and do the arches of your feet hurt you? There is no good reason why one cannot do all this in comfort.

It is unfortunate that many people who suffer from flat feet have resigned themselves to lives of cripples. They have come to believe that it is necessary for them to wear a supporting device to give them a measure of comfort—and they are even grateful for that.

The system I use for the treatment of feet WILL restore the arches. If you have flat feet you can be helped—you can throw any mechanical devices away. You can be active with comfort. Do the things that you want to do. Walk as much as you like—and not have to suffer. Learn about this.

MUST PAY HIGH FOR PASSPORTS

European Countries Tax Americans Equivalent of $10, the Rate Here.

LESS FOR OTHER TOURISTS

President Mitchell of the Red Star Line Suggests Action by the United States Chamber of Commerce—Passports Go Back to Land.

New York.—According to Percy V. G. Mitchell, president of the Red Star Line and general manager of the International Mercantile Marine company in Belgium, the charge of $10 for an American visa on passports is not only a tax upon immigrants who have to pay the high rate of exchange, but also upon American business men abroad. "Since the charge for a visa has been raised from $2 to $10," said Mr. Mitchell, "the countries in Europe have retaliated by making Americans pay the same amount. They have arranged to base their charges for a visa on a sliding scale. For example, I have to pay 175 francs for my visa at the Belgian consulate because I am an American, while an Englishman has only to pay 110 francs, which is a big difference when a man is accompanied by members of his family.

All Are Doing It. "Since the war Europe has been split up into a number of small countries, and each of them is charging Americans the equivalent of $10 in United States currency. A business man has to pass from one country to another to get anywhere, and in each case he has to pay heavily because the State department in Washington, without any reason that I have been able to learn, has raised the fee to $10. "The citizens of the United States have to pay $10 for his passport in the first place, and then to pay another $10 to return from abroad, and the same amount for the countries he visits on the continent. Why the United States Chamber of Commerce has not taken up this question, which is so important to American business men traveling through Europe, I am at a loss to understand.

Tourist Travel Hit. "In addition it will also interfere with tourist travel in the summer, which had already decreased considerably through the increase in passenger fares made necessary by the high cost of operation of the steamships, increased wages, food, fuel, etc."

Mr. Mitchell said the Belgian government was putting the peasants back on the land in Flanders, and in place of the small cottages with earthen floors which were demolished by the German guns they were erecting neat, small houses with tiled floors and modern sanitary conveniences. From what he had heard recently in Brussels before sailing for New York, the government would not rebuild Nieuport, the former fashionable seashore resort, as it had been blasted to pieces by shells and bombs, the avianes approaching it being ruined.

Dixmude, where the severe fighting took place at the bridgehead on the Yser, was to a great extent demolished also, but the people had started to return there in the summer of 1919 and build on the ruins of their former homes. The Belgian peasant loves his country and does not want to go abroad to live, Mr. Mitchell added.

INNOCENT, SERVES 15 YEARS

Swiss Convicted of Kitting Girl to Be Freed—Real Culprit Makes Confession.

Geneva.—After serving more than fifteen years of a life sentence for a murder of which he has always claimed to be innocent, a young man named Hirschebrenner is to be released, the real culprit having confessed.

On the day following a masked ball at Solvay in May, 1906, the body of a young Swiss girl was found in the waiting room of the railroad station, where she had been strangled to death. She had been seen the previous evening in the company of a young man dressed as a peasant woman. The description of her companion tallied with a costume worn by Hirschebrenner, and he was tried and sentenced to life imprisonment entirely on circumstantial evidence.

Breaks Wooden Arm as He Punches Man's Nose

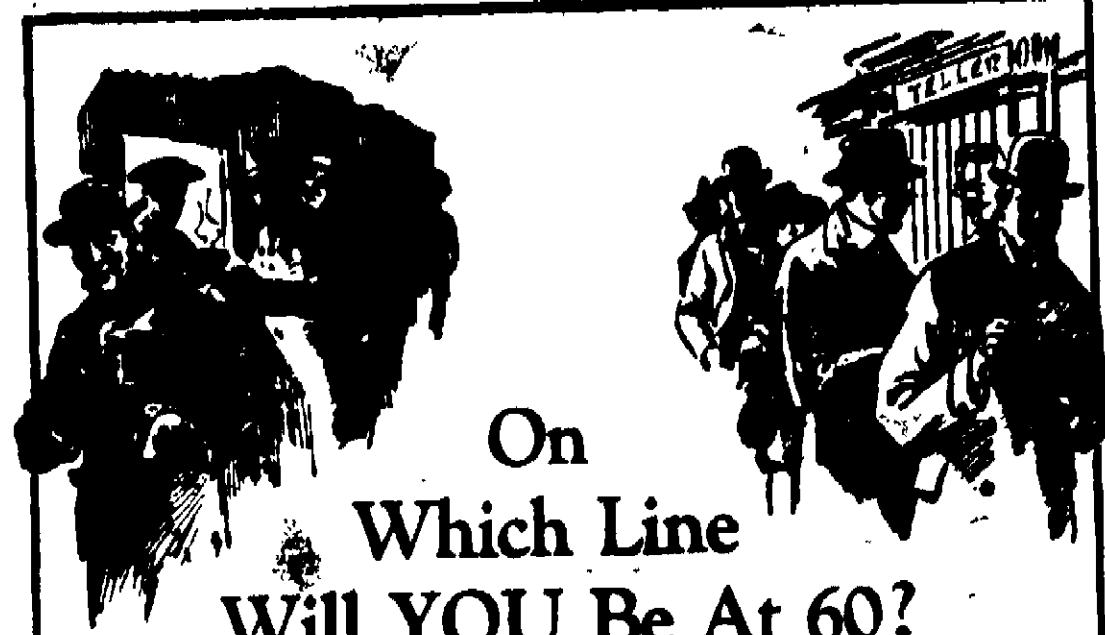

Martinsburg, W. Va.—W. B. Wetly, an alleged doorkeeper of a suspected gambling joint, broke his wooden arm over the head of Philip Hack, a Tarentum (Pa.) business man, who is reported to have tried to enter by force the room which Wetly guards. The blow seriously damaged Hack's nose. Mayor Nelson saved Wetly $12.00 on a charge of assault and battery.

U. S. INCOME TAX MEN ASSIGNED

Auditors For Kingston District Who Will Aid Persons in Doubt in Making Out Returns.

J. Deputy Hasbrouck, district director of the Kingston district of the New York state income tax bureau, announced today the assignment of auditors to assist taxpayers in the Kingston district in making out their returns for 1920.

Arrangements have been made to cover every part of the district with income tax representatives, instructed to be of every assistance in explaining, in a language of lay law, giving information regarding individual cases, and being helpful in every possible way.

Because so many people do not understand the law, Mr. Deputy, director of the bureau, decided to send representatives into the field until April 15, the last day for filing returns, to give first hand information to persons in doubt about making their return. He therefore urges taxpayers to call at the places designated and make their income tax returns known.

This includes the Kingston office where information will be gladly given them every day by District Director Hasbrouck and his assistants. If a resident is not sure about any point in the law as for instance whether or not the person is subject to the tax do not fail to call at the designated places and ask the income tax representative. Bring your records to have any particular point cleared up although these are not necessary in handling ordinary questions. No charge of any kind will be made for the services.

The following is a list of the assignments in the Kingston office during the 1921 collection period.

Victor M. Terwilliger—Newburgh, February 28 to April 9, inclusive, court house.

Harold V. Farrell—Middletown, February 28 to March 12, city hall (clerk's office); Port Jervis, March 14 to March 26, city hall (clerk's office); Goshen, March 28 to April 2, county clerk's office; Ellenville, April 4 to April 7, village hall.

Burton C. Korte—New Paltz, February 28 to March 5, New Paltz Savings Bank, Walden, March 4 to March 16, municipal building; Monticello, March 11 to March 12, Montgomery National Bank; Warwick, March 14 to March 17, Warwick Savings Bank, Chester, March 18, Chester National Bank; Monroe, March 19 to March 21, Citizens National Bank; Tuxedo, March 22 to March 23, Tuxedo National Bank; Highland Falls, March 24 to March 26, First National Bank; Cornwall, March 28 to March 29, Cornwall National Bank; Marlborough, March 31 to April 1, Marlborough National Bank; Highland, April 2 to April 5, Highland National Bank; Saugerties, April 6 to April 9, town clerk's office.

Harry W. Wright—Fine Hill, February 28 to March 2, Fred D. Cure (store); Tannersville, March 3 to March 5, Mountains National Bank; Catskill, March 7 to March 26, court house; Coxsackie, March 28 to March 31, National Bank of Coxsackie; Athens, April 1 to April 2, town clerk's office.

Thomas Peters—Middletown, February 28 to March 12, city hall (city clerk's office); Port Jervis, March 14 to March 26, city hall (city clerk's office); Newburgh, March 28 to April 3, court house.

Federal Judge Evans Reverses Internal Revenue Ruling.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Louisville, Ky., Feb. 11.—Ruling of the Department of Internal Revenue that the words "beer, ale, porter, lager, bock, stout, etc." must not be used in labeling beverages, was reversed yesterday by Federal Judge Evans.

Judge Evans granted a local brewing company an injunction preventing the government from interfering with its labeling one of its products "lager."

The court held the revenue commissioner "usurped legislative authority" when he rendered the decision.

RODERS WIVES ENDS WIFE TRAGEDY.

For high tragedy nothing can approach the manner in which the Rodgers family quitted earth's stage, John Rodgers was assassinated on the 10th of March. Timothy was followed by Charles who was followed by his wife, and then by his favorite daughter. She was slain by the Rodgers family. Charles, after having declared himself to be a god, was murdered; while Mrs. Rodgers succeeded in saving herself from the hands of the murderers.

"LANGUID"—THAT'S THE WORD

Not Sick Exactly, Just Seem To Have No Ambition

An Awful Feeling Seldom Necessary.

Pepto-Mangan, The Red Blood Builder, Does Away with Languor.

If you don't feel like doing things, you won't. If you wonder where some people get all their energy, the answer is from good food which in turn makes rich, red blood.

If your blood does not give the nourishment and vigor it should, it is most likely that your blood is so weak that it needs a little extra help for a time to build it up to normal strength.

Thousands of men and women have been restored to vigorous health and lasting happiness by Gude's Pepto-Mangan. This beneficial blood tonic contains the very properties so vitally needed to improve the blood. Pepto-Mangan, if taken for a few weeks, will enrich the blood and create thousands of the tiny red blood cells that are so necessary to carry nourishment and strength to every part of the body.

Be sure to ask your druggist for "Gude's" when you order Pepto-Mangan. For convenience it is prepared in liquid and tablet form, both possessing exactly the same medicinal properties. "Gude's" is the genuine Pepto-Mangan. Look for the name "Gude's" on the package.—Advertisement.

LENTEN PROGRAM AT HOLY CROSS

Father Tiedemann to Preach Holy Week Mission—Rector Gives Two Courses of Sermons—Special Music at Sunday Vespers.

The parish of the Holy Cross has announced an elaborate program of devotions and instructions for the season of Lent, including Sunday recitals after vespers, and concluding with a holy week mission by Father Karl Tiedemann, O. H. C.

At the Sunday High Mass, the rector of the parish, the Rev. Gregory Mabry, will deliver a course of sermons on the general subject "Foundation Stones," the sermons being as follows:

Feb. 12—God the Father, Maker of Heaven and Earth.
Feb. 20—God the Son, Redeemer of Mankind.
Feb. 27—God the Holy Ghost, Sanctifier of the Faithful.
March 8—God's Organization and His Saints.
March 18—The Rescue and the Shore.

The Wednesday evening sermons are given under the general title of "Further Considerations of the Kingdom," and are a continuation of last Lent's study of the Kingdom of Heaven, taken from the parables of the Kingdom. They bear the following sub-titles:

Feb. 9—The Master Key.
Feb. 16—The Laborers in the Vineyard.
Feb. 23—The Two Sons.
March 2—The Great Supper, and the Marriage of the King's Son.
March 9—The Ten Virgins.
March 16—The Talents.

The special music arranged for the Sunday afternoons, following 4 o'clock vespers is:

Feb. 20—Organ recital by John Cushing, organist of Calvary Church in New York City.
Feb. 27—Stainer's Oratorio, "The Crucifixion."
March 6—Moore's Oratorio, "The Last Night at Bethany."
March 13—Robert's Oratorio, "The Story of the Cross," by the men's choir of St. Stephen's College.
Father Karl Tiedemann, O. H. C., will commence the holy week mission at the Palm Sunday High Mass, preaching a mission sermon again at 8 o'clock in the evening and every evening following at that hour through Good Friday. He will also give an instruction at a special Mass to be held at 8:30 each day, except Friday. He will likewise preach the "Three Hours' Passion on Good Friday from noon until 3 p. m. In his work he will be assisted by another one of the Fathers of the Holy Cross.

The special service arranged for children will be the stations of the cross each Friday at 4 p. m.

TORNADO IN SOUTH KILLS 23

By Telegram to The Freeman.

Sandersville, Ga., Feb. 11.—The latest advice today from the villages of Oconee and Gardner, swept by a tornado Thursday afternoon states that two white persons, Benjamin Orr, 14, the little daughter of E. L. Minor, 2 years old and 21 negroes were killed and between 35 and 40 suffered broken bones and painful bruises.

The minor child was crushed to death and the Orr boy completely decapitated.

The village of Gardner suffered most severely, where every cottage and shanty except three was demolished.

At Oconee the school building filled with pupils and two dwellings were blown away.

The tornado, a twister, struck near Oconee and roaring, crushing and demolishing, swept everything clean to a point near Tomsboro, where the force of the storm seems to have spent itself.

A. H. Illingworth, M. P., postmaster general of Great Britain, who is facing a storm of criticism because of his recent raising of the telephone rates. In defending his action, Mr. Illingworth declared that the deficit on the telephone service should be made good by increased charges to the telephone user and not by recourse to the already heavily overburdened taxpayer.

ESOPUS

Esopus, Feb. 10.—On Tuesday evening, February 15, the Junior League Society will hold a nee social in the basement of the Methodist Church. Arthritic Patients.
A country lad went to a neighboring town and applied for a situation advertised in the local paper. One of the questions was: "A man buys an article for $4.00 and sells it for $6.00; does he gain or lose on the transaction?" After pondering the question, the rural youth answered: "He gains on the dollars, but loses on the cents."

Sick Room Hint.
When patient's mouth becomes dry and parched during the night, a piece of orange held in the mouth from time to time will quench thirst. The orange should be cut into small pieces and put within easy reach of the invalid. It will be easier to handle than a glass of water and is more refreshing.

Indian and African Elephants.
The most distinguishing point of difference between the Indian elephant and the African elephant is the size and shape of the ear. The ear of the African elephant is much the larger.

ALBANY ELKS INITIATE HERE

The degree team of Albany Lodge of Elks, accompanied by a delegation of thirty-seven members of that lodge, paid a fraternal visit to Kingston Lodge, No. 550, B. P. O. Elks, at the Elks' club house on Fair street, Thursday evening, and initiated a class of seventeen candidates.

The Albany delegation arrived at Kingston at 5:07 o'clock in the afternoon and were met by a committee of Kingston Lodge, who brought them to this city on the tug Rob, which had been chartered for the occasion. Waiting automobiles at Rondout conveyed the party to the club house, where an informal reception was held. At 6:30 o'clock dinner was served to the visiting brethren at The Stuyvesant.

The degree work was conducted by the Albany Elks in the efficient manner which has made them famous throughout the state, and at the close of the lodge, a social session was held. Entertainment was furnished by the Danny Fitzgerald trio of this city, by several vaudeville artists who are appearing at the Orpheum Theatre, and by Brothers Clarke and Lania of Albany Lodge, who entertained delightfully with Irish wit and humor.

Among the distinguished guests were William E. Driscoll, Sr., of Albany, grand trustee; William T. Byrne of Albany, a member of the membership committee of the grand lodge and District Deputy; William E. Fitzsimmons of the New York-Northeast district.

The degree team of Albany Lodge was composed of Thomas F. Nolan, exalted ruler; Isadore Bookstein, esteemed leading knight; R. Edward Marston, esteemed loyal knight; Edward N. Scherbeling, esteemed lecturing knight; John A. Boyle, secretary; Edward S. Hanlon, secretary; James A. Byrne, trustee.

The visitors returned to Albany in a special coach attached to the express which passes through Kingston at one o'clock.

Nettles That Cause Death.
All species of nettles are unpleasant enough to handle roughly, but some of the foreign ones are most formidable plants. Several of the East-Indian forms are truly dangerous, for, after the first itching sensation has passed away, it is often followed by a feeling as if hot irons were being rubbed on the flesh, and the pain increases to such an extent that after hours—and sometimes days—the patient is seized with symptoms like those following influenza and lockjaw, while sometimes death results.

Mrs. Cora Johnson of Rockford, Ill., who was "traded" by her husband, Eric Johnson, to their business, Berger Peterson, for a vacant lot valued at $500. The strange transfer came to light when Johnson was arrested for disorderly conduct when he attempted to renege his wife. Johnson had faith and courage in these times, agreed to relinquish all rights to her in consideration of the transfer of the lot. Mrs. Johnson told the police. She has been living with Peterson. Peterson and Mrs. Johnson were also arrested and their story is being investigated. Mrs. Johnson says she loves Peterson and will try to get a divorce so that she may marry him.

Fair Street Men's Class.

There are two treats in store for the members of the Men's Bible Class of the Fair Street Returned Church tonight. The first will be food for the intellect, being an address on "Lincoln" by Dr. George W. Grinton, superintendent of the Kingston district of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Dr. Grinton is a very able speaker and members of the class will be well repaid for their attendance at the meeting. The other treat will be a social gathering and will be given by Steward George Main. No advance information has been given out concerning this part of the program, but the members always place full confidence in the steward's selections.

Lincoln—His Day And Ours.

"Lincoln—His Day And Ours" will be Dr. Baragwanath's subject at the patriotic service in the St. James Methodist Church on Sunday night. The preacher will speak particularly of the need of Lincoln's leadership in these times. At ten minutes past seven there will be a service of song for everybody. These song services have proved to be very popular. There will be organ, piano and brass instruments, as well as human voices uplifted in familiar hymns. At the regular service the choir will render a fine program.

PALENTOWN.

Palentown, Feb. 10.—Mrs. Mary Brauer who is employed at Elmer Harringer's spent Sunday with her daughter, Mrs. F. Reeves. Those who recently spent a pleasant afternoon at Feitmann's Rest were Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Harringer and George Lyons. The mill at the lumber camp in the mountains was burned on Thursday morning of last week. Norman Bell spent the week end with friends out of town.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Harringer are receiving congratulations over the arrival of a young son. Beattie Reeves and Mrs. William P. Dymond called on Mrs. Freeman Roosa Sunday afternoon. Mrs. William P. Dymond and Miss Sherman spent Thursday evening at the Roosa home.

ALLIGERVILLE.

Alligerville, Feb. 10.—The Ladies' Aid Society of the Reformed Church will serve a roast beef supper at the home of Miss Mary Schoonmaker Saturday evening, February 12. The menu will be vegetable soup, roast beef, mashed potatoes, green beans, celery, pickles, bread, butter, cheese, cream, cake and coffee will be served for dessert.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Evans spent Saturday last at Kingston. Mrs. Mary Krum of Bredford is spending a few days at her home here.

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, Feb. 10.—Note the change of date concerning the supper which was to be given Tuesday night, February 15, in the W. E. Church, to be postponed until the following Wednesday evening, February 16. Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Snyder of Rondout are guests on Tuesday of some friends in this village.

Dangerous Liquids.

Gasoline, ether and benzine could not be kept on shelves in a cabinet in the house, the national board of underwriters says in a recent article. It is exceedingly dangerous, as either gasoline or benzine gives off an extraordinary temperature inflammable vapor. Through these vapors, a light at a distance may ignite the liquid. If there is a small leak in the container in which any of the liquids are kept, sufficient vapor may form to cause a violent explosion. With ether the danger is even greater than with gasoline or benzine.

Daddy's Evening Fairy Tale

By MARY GRAHAM BONNER

MORE WAVE ADVENTURES.

The waves who had wanted adventures and who had been allowed to have them by the consent of their mother, Mother Ocean, were getting pretty tired of them.

Mother Ocean.

Mother Ocean was really looking after her children though they didn't know it and would have been greatly relieved had they known it. But she felt they must see just what they had asked to see and then they would be really contented when they came back.

They had been taken by a brownie to a city. It was horrible. There were pavements and it was all they could do to get out of the way of people's feet. These people were so unlike the people at the seashore. They didn't rest but they always kept hurrying and scurrying along.

After a bit the brownie led them into a great building and into a dark, terrible thing the brownie called an elevator. Up they whizzed to a dizzy height and then they stopped with a horrible jolt.

The brownie beckoned to them to follow him and he led them into a little office where there was a man sitting at a desk. There were many papers before him and he was looking through them.

"Hello, Brownie," he said.

"Hello," answered the brownie. "I've brought some waves here with me. They were tired of the ocean. They wanted adventures. I've shown them what our great forests were like and what this beautiful city was like. Now I believe they'd like to settle down to work. They were tired of their mother—you've heard of Mother Ocean, haven't you?"

The old man nodded his head.

"Well, they wanted to leave her and strike out for themselves. They want to do great things in the world. I've brought them here. Of course no one can do great things all at once, but I'm sure they'd be willing to learn. Perhaps you can start some of them as stokers on railway trains. They may in time do so well that they're made managers of the road. And some you might make lawyers and doctors, but you would have to send them to school for a good long time first."

"Well, you know all about jobs and what ones are ready for them now, and how much study and work they need before they can take them. If they have ambition we all know they will get on. No one can start at the top, though, eh?" grinned the brownie.

"No one," said the little man.

The waves were trying to say that they didn't want to work in this horrible city, they wanted to go back to the sea, but they couldn't say a word.

Finally one of the waves reached into his sea-shell suit case and pulled out his sea-wood night shirt. He tried to say he wanted to go back and he waved his night shirt, thinking they would understand as they looked at the sea-wood that surely a creature who wore such queer things wouldn't do for the earth, or the dry land.

But the brownie only grinned at the little man.

"Ah," he said, "this wave wants a good night's rest and then he's ready to start in."

The poor wave could bear it no longer. He sat down at the brownie's feet all his strength gone. He didn't know how long he had been there, but he didn't know that his brothers and sisters had dropped down in just another moment.

"I believe they're a little sleepy-go-back," substituting up the waves on the sea-suffing down upon them. They looked further and there was the rolling face of "Take Us Back."

Down old Mother Ocean before them.

"Oh, mother, take us back," they cried.

"Your sisters and brothers are coming for you," she called in that voice of hers which seemed more beautiful to them than ever.

"The wind carried you back for the sea and you were unhappy on the earth. And one of their big sister waves dived up on the shore and took them back with her to their beautiful sea home and the adventures were over at last."

A Sudden Silence.

"Auntie, May I have another piece of candy?"

"No, little one, it will only make your teeth ache more."

"Oh, it won't. It'll just go and eat it in front of the dentist."

A Violent Cough.

A little five-year-old, sitting just under the old-fashioned lamp, asked: "Mother, why don't you get one of those bark-cure pills the Dr. Jones got?"—Dorothy Thompson.

CONDENSED CLASSICS

JEROME

By MARY E. WILKINS-FREEMAN

Condensation by Mary E. Wilkins-Freeman

FOR a poor New England boy, Jerome Edwards, the tragedy of life began at the age of ten. His father, Abel Edwards, had gone that morning, with his wagon and old maddening white horse, to his woodlot to cut wood for Doctor Prescott.

Doctor Prescott had an obsession for owning land. When there was a lack of ready money to pay his exorbitant bills, he seized with avidity upon a mortgage, and he foreclosed without grace or mercy.

Doctor Prescott had held a thousand-dollar mortgage upon the Edwards house for years.

The old white horse coming home, turning out at the back of a phantom driver for the bad places in the country road, was met upon his arrival at the Edwards cottage with wild shrieks in a woman's voice, a child's frightened sob; and a boy's sober answers to the eager questions of a small mob of men and boys following after.

There was an immediate rush to the wood lot, but Jerome had reached the spot the first of all. On the shore of a black pool of water, reputed among the boys to be bottomless, he found his father's hat. Jerome weighted it with stones and flung it in. Then he bolted for home by another route. "Let 'em say father drowned himself now," he gasped out as he ran.

Abel Edwards had been missing two years when Jerome, studying the situation day and night, knew the truth: They could never, although they half starved themselves, meet the interest of the mortgage. He made a plan.

He went to consult Squire Eben Merritt. The squire was a notable hunter and fisher, and had been bent that morning upon a fishing excursion.

Jerome looked straight at the squire, and made his little speech. He had rehearsed it often. When he had finished, the squire burst into a great roar of laughter, and caught the boy by the shoulder. "You don't mean you planned this all yourself?"

"Yes, sir. I've been layin' awake nights, plannin'."

"How old are you?"

"Twelve, sir."

"By Jove!"

Then a lovely, gentle little girl stole into the room. Her dimpled arms and neck were bare and her shower of gold curls fell to her waist. She wore a frock of soft blue.

The squire told Jerome to call on Doctor Prescott and show his plan.

A small dark, very kind and quick lady, who was the squire's wife and Lucia's mother, showed Jerome the door, and he went down the street in a daze. Jerome almost forgot the important paper he carried. He had never seen a little girl like Lucia Merritt.

Jerome called on Doctor Prescott, who designed to read his paper and then summarily dismissed him. He hated him in a strange way for a man to hate a boy. On his way home Jerome encountered Squire Merritt coming out of a woodland road, with a great string of fish. "What luck, son?" he called out.

"He turned me out. I'd like to kill him."

The squire laughed and made Jerome walk along with him to his sister Camilla's, who kept elderly maiden state in the old Merritt house.

Jerome always remembered that hour of tea-drinking and cake-eating in the arbor with Squire Merritt and his sister and little Lucia, as he would have an especially beautiful turn of his kaleidoscope of life.

Until he was much older, Jerome did not fully comprehend to what way Eben Merritt had solved his financial difficulties. Then he discovered that the squire had made great sacrifices of his name too large competency to buy from Doctor Prescott, and take the Edwards' mortgage into his own hands.

Now life began to look brighter for Jerome. He could not go to school in the ordinary sense, so he went direct to nature. He, in his scanty few time, roamed fields and woods. Jake Sawyer, a queer character who occasionally was Doctor Prescott's coachman, but who had been permitted to assimilate, and some said had even been taught much of the doctor's medical lore, taught Jerome much about stumps.

Jerome attained a local under-obscurity, since he gave aid for nothing and with success.

Gradually Jerome's business ideas developed and strengthened. There was an exceptional chance for a saw-mill in the village. He went one evening to Lawyer Means with a request that he should sell two hundred and eighty-five dollars' worth of his land on Graystone Brook, and came away with the deed. He then began to save for the mill.

In those days he worked like a tiger. For he was in love.

Lucia Merritt had come home from school, and he had seen her in church. Lucia Merritt was a very great beauty, and her father contrived to deck her out like one. He bought a white dress for her. Then Lawyer Prescott came home, and was often seen correcting about with Lucia, on a blooded horse his father owned.

Jerome worked harder. Occasional multiplied during which he and Lucia met. At first she wondered at him obviously with dilating blue eyes, then she began to blush softly.

Jerome's looks at her could have had one meaning.

In the meantime, Elmina Edwards and her own little romance with Lawrence Prescott, but it promised to be an unhappy one. Lawrence was threatened with disinheritance, and Elmina dismissed him. Then she fell ill, and that night was in a high fever. Lawrence came and she did not know him. Lawrence went home and had a scene with his father.

As under the circumstances Prescott could not be employed, a doctor from Westbrook was sent for. Elmina was ill several weeks. Lawrence and his mother were assiduous in care and attention.

Her illness cost so much that Jerome had not been able to make good the deficit caused by a loan to Ozzias Lamb, to prevent a foreclosure of a mortgage on his little home. Some times Jerome reflected with bitter amusement upon the bet made in the village store a few years ago. Eggled on by some village wags, Doctor Prescott and Simon Bassett had signed before Lawyer Means a document whereby they promised to pay for the house of the poor, ten thousand apiece, if Jerome Edwards should ever have twenty-five thousand and give it all away.

Jerome thought it the safest business deal in all creation. Meanwhile he worked so hard he seldom saw Lucia. He had not the time to call upon her. He was sure that they understood each other although as formal engagement had been made. He was sure that Lucia understood that he could not call because he was working so hard for her sake. But Lucia did not understand. She grew thin and pale, and her parents (fearing a decline, sent her West for a change.

But he was not sure when she returned from the West looking blooming and sent him a little note, informing him she would be home that they would be friends but nothing more.

Even then Jerome did not believe. His faith in the girl was almost sublime.

The mill was built, and work began. Jerome set himself a certain sum to be earned before he went to see Lucia.

One day the village was startled by the news that Col. Jack Lamson had come into a fortune of fifty-five thousand dollars from some old mining stock, and had come to Boston with Lawyer Means upon business connected with it.

Shortly after that the village had another shock. Abel Edwards came home. He had been all the time on a farm fifty miles away and had brought home all his earnings in a big box.

Jerome was preparing, when one night there came a rule that was almost a declaration, the break up in food, and the next morning the mill was carried away.

Jerome for the first time gave up hope, when Colonel Lamson suddenly died, and left twenty-five thousand dollars to him, twenty thousand to Lucia, five thousand to Eben Merritt, ten thousand to John Jennings, five thousand to Lawyer Means.

People at once remembered the old bet in the store. Would Jerome give away the money? He soon set doubts at rest. He gave the money to the poor of the village, and a factory was to be set up, using the money as capital stock.

The bet was not binding legally, Prescott knew, but did not fail to abide by his word. Simon Bassett hung himself before he knew he need not pay a dollar unless he chose.

Squire Merritt's wife took a hand. She offered Jerome the five thousand dollars which her husband had inherited, to build a new mill, but Jerome refused, although he knew that it meant giving up Lucia.

Mrs. Merritt said that she inferred that he did not wish to marry Lucia. Jerome burst out with mad vows of his love for Lucia.

Mrs. Merritt returned that he loved his pride more. Finally Jerome yielded. They were standing outside under a tree talking, and in the parlor were Elmina and Lawrence Prescott talking. Everything was settled happily for them. Doctor Prescott had given his consent.

When Jerome met Lucia in the parlor she clung to him and wept at first, then she drew him to a little damask sofa, and took a letter from her pocket. They read it together. It was from Col. Jack Lamson, dated just before his death. In it he begged that the sum of twenty thousand dollars be regarded by Lucia as a dowry, to be employed by her both when you wed Jerome Edwards for your mutual good and profit during your married life.

"I am, dear Miss Lucia, your obedient servant to command and your affectionate foster father."

"John Lamson."

"P. S. I meant Jerome's twenty-five thousand to be used as he used it—L. L."

Lace Tree.

The lace-bark tree provides the women of Jamaica with ready-made hats, from which caps, bonnets, and hats are made. The inner bark of the tree is soaked in water and divided into separate layers. Each layer is stretched and spread in the sun-drying. The application of water bleaches the lace. A tree that produces in the North Sea islands produces fruit which, as a food, resembles very closely a newly baked loaf. On account of this it is known as the bread tree.

Get to Make It Hot.

Mrs. Ada Goldberg

It's a topsy-turvy world, indeed, since women were given the ballot. In the not far distant past the irate wife used to sit up late to curse her hubby's dome with a rolling pin. Times have changed though, as Mrs. Ada Goldberg, of Chicago, testified at a hearing in her suit for divorce in that city. Mrs. Goldberg complained that her husband, Joseph, had struck her over the head with a glass rolling pin. "Usurping a woman's prerogative," said the judge.

Miss Margaret Porter

Miss Margaret Porter, of New York, is about to take a joy ride in a catamaran at Palm Beach. The catamaran is a sort of a sea-going back-bond to stay right side up even in the roughest breakers. It has non-skid pontoons, demountable oars, and can take all waves on high. Perhaps, however, you will have little if any interest for the catamaran when looking at this picture.

To Remove Grit From Eye.

Small foreign bodies which are not included in the eyelid may often be removed by going into a dark room, looking up toward the lighting fixture, then turning the light on quickly, writes a correspondent. If the light is strong enough, it will cause a violent reaction which will cause the particle to be wedged to the corner of the eye. It is then easily removed by means of a clean handkerchief.

Finger Rings Dangerous.

According to the Seattle representative of the shipping board, finger rings constitute a fruitful source of accidents to shipyard workers. "If you wish to avoid accidents," says this authority, "leave them off when you go to work. Within thirty days two men have lost fingers as a result of accidents for which their rings were responsible, and more than twenty less serious mishaps have been reported which were due to the same cause."

Don't Think.

Jack Tinkins says he's adding to his stock a fine business man that it takes him longer to bargain over a day's work than it does to do the work.

FREEMAN WANT ADS. BRING RESULTS

Trapped.

Bear Hunter Experienced Uncomfortable Night in Snare He Had Prepared for Feroocious Old Grizzly.

"Old Mose" was one of the most ferocious bears in the country.

On one occasion a man named Hancock tried to trap him. In playing the bait inside the trap, Hancock accidentally touched the trigger, and the animal snapped and imprisoned him.

He tried to pry the heavy timbers apart, but found that he could not shift them an inch. From one side of the trap to the other he went, unconsciously imitating the movements Bruin would have made in hunting for a weak point. All his efforts were fruitless.

scrapped up some chips and twigs, made a fire and roasted part of the deer that he had brought to bait the trap with. Being lightly dressed, he suffered keenly from the cold night air. He lay down on the ground, but suddenly he heard sniffling sounds on his side and detected, by the dim light of the moon, a dark form gazing through the chinks between the logs. Hancock felt safe, although his gun was standing by a tree some distance from the trap; Mose—for it was no other—seemed to realize the fact.

Knowing his savage nature, Hancock withdrew to the other side of the trap as the big form rose up on his hind legs. He could feel the heat of hot breath surging through between the loss upon his face; and, fearin

Daylight came at last, and Moser trotted off. Again Hancock built fire and cooked the rest of the deer meat. He almost decided to set one end of the trap on fire and burn his way out. But what if he were unable to control the blaze? If he could reach his rifle, he would be in a pos-

His horse, tired of standing round had long ago made for home.

The next morning, the neighbors seeing Hancock's horse in the yard surmised that the "outlaw of the Rockies" had secured another victim. Several cattlemen started out in search of Hancock. In the middle of the Hancock had torn his shirt into strips, making a rope about 20 feet long. He had then tied two stones to a string about a yard long and fastened one end of the long line to the middle. Then he threw the stone out between the cracks of his prison toward the rifle. After two hours gun within reach. He then tried desperately to cut his way out by shooting holes through a log about a foot in diameter. Before he got very far his comrades had located the shelter and released him.

Had Feared the Worst.
It is a sad thing to have to relate the story of a man who has been er night "wet." Not externally, but internally: he had drunk wine or spirits or beer!

With uncertain footsteps he climbed the stairs, with itchy, nervous fingers he unclothed himself, with swimming head he lay down in his bed.

Mrs. Spongedry had, however, heard his anti-catlike tread.

"Anti-catlike," she thought, "he is not a cat, but a scorpion. He is a scorpion."

"Who is that?" he asked.

"I am a ghost!" came the answer from the sheet.

"Oh, that's all right, then: But you don't give me a fright! I thought you were my wife!" London Tit-Bits.

What He Liked.

Mr. T. had visited the D. family long enough to find that they were strong on culture but weak on comforts, such as a sufficient supply of hot water, food and even heat. On a cold night he shivered in the living room while the members of the family were warm in their next habitation.

One said that she "dearly loved" paintings; another professed a fondness for "great works of literature" and the third spoke eloquently "great works of sculpture."

Finally it came the guest's time to converse. He shivered a minute; then gave a feeble smile. "Rubbish," he said earnestly, "I have a slight fondness for a grade five."

The Argonne Club of Poughkeepsie has arranged a fine boxing program for next Wednesday evening. In the main bout Joe Colletti, flyweight champion of Poughkeepsie, will fight Frankie Genarac, world's amateur flyweight champion, 12 rounds to a decision for the New York state flyweight championship. In the semi-main bout Phil Mandot of New York meets Patsy Rubino of Troy, both are featherweights. There will also be a return six round bout between Turk Kelly and Terry Davis of New York. For the accommodation of Kingston fans the Poughkeepsie-Highland ferry will make a trip after the fights.

Lurie Is In Training.
Mason Lurie of Chambers street has boxing aspirations and said today he was going into training to enter the lightweight division, and would probably seek a match before a boxing club in Poughkeepsie.

Sinn Fein Burns Plane.
London, Feb. 11.—A military airplane which had landed at Killiney, Ireland, was burned by Sinn Feiners, said a government communique this afternoon.

Church Social Is Postponed.
The social and clam powder supper that was to have been given this evening in the Franklin Street A. M. E. Zion Church has been postponed on account of the storm.

Real Sea Monster.
According to scientists of the Smithsonian Institute the record fish was captured at Miami, Fla., after a fight lasting 30 hours. Five lampreys and 150 bullets were laid to subdue the monster. It was a whale shark and weighed 30,000 pounds, its liver alone weighing 1,700 pounds.

The United States Wearing Away.
An average of 95 tons of soil, pebbles, and rock is carried by the rivers into the ocean every year from every square mile of the United States, according to the United States geological survey, department of the interior. The immensity of this contribution may be better comprehended when it is realized that the surface of the United States covers 3,683,500 square miles.

Every Man to His Trade.
A devoted couple, married a short time ago, took up their abode in a dainty cottage in a suburban quarter. Everything in the house was the latest and gave the utmost satisfaction. But one evening when the husband returned he found to his disgust that a water pipe had burst. The rooms were flooded and the carpets, which were the husband's special pride, were in danger of being spoiled.

"Well," said he impatiently to his wife, "why on earth didn't you hammer the pipe up? Here, give me a hammer and I'll do it in a twinkling."

He got the hammer and pounded away at a pipe down in the cellar. When he had finished he paused to examine the result of his labor. Then, to his complete chagrin, he heard the sweetly chiding voice of his wife at the top of the stairs.

"Howard!" said she, "the gas has gone out, and the water is still running."

Then he sent for a plumber. Answers.

MAN'S CRUELTY TO ANIMALS

Writer Denounces the "Life Imprisonment" Which Confinement in Zoological Garden Means.

"Purely as a matter of ethics, abolition is the ultimate logic of all zoological gardens." Such is the opinion of a writer in the Nation of London. "Animals have committed no crimes against the community," he says, "and therefore the community has no right whatever to give them life sentences of imprisonment." A very few of the larger animals, he admits, may affect human life injuriously, but they form an infinitesimal portion of the inhabitants of a zoological garden. On the other hand, it is argued that we never thought of confining those animals believed to be the most injurious, namely insects—and therefore it is plain that "the punishment does not fit the crime."

Even if it were granted that animals are happier in captivity than in their native wilds, this can only be meant relatively, for though protected and cared for, animals in captivity are denied the primal joys of liberty and fitness to environment, among such jobs being their power of exercising their suppleness of body or strength of wing in graceful movements, and not least of all joys, the power of satisfying their continual curiosity.

Much has been done for animals, and much more might be done for the wild birds. For the eagles, hawks, condors and vultures the writer feels that nothing can be done. He quotes from that great lover of birds, W. W. Hudson, to whom the sight of any bird in a cage, be it robin redbreast or bird unknown to William Blake, literally sets him in a rage. He has somewhere described a sermon he heard on genius, in which the preacher likened the life of the ordinary person to that of the canary in its cage. But of the genius—"A cloud came over his (the preacher's) majestic features, he drew himself up and swayed his body from side to side, and shook his black gown and lifted his arms as a great bird lifts its plumed homologies, and let them fall again two or three times, and then said in deep measured tones which seemed to express rage and despair—'But did you ever see the eagle in his cage?'"

The brooding hopeless gaze of those stern eyes offers only one solution to the appalling problem, the keys of the city of the air.

NEW MINT FOR CHINA
First Institution of Kind Expected to Stabilize Currency.

American Expert in Charge of Making 300,000 Silver Dollars Every Day.

Shanghai.—The first step in an effort toward uniformity in Chinese currency will be undertaken by the issuing here of China's first national bank. The work will be directed by an American mint expert, Clifford Hewitt of Philadelphia, whose services have been loaned to China by the United States, and who came here a short time ago to begin his duties. Mr. Hewitt supervised the new mint at Manila, the first established in the Philippines.

It is expected that the completion of the new Chinese mint will put an end to the chaotic system of currency of all kinds and values which has long been a drag on the commercial progress of China.

While the 30,000,000 dollar minted here from the Chinese government, has been in a constant state of flux, the new mint will produce a uniformity of value, and will be a great help to the Chinese people.

Other officials of government have issued coins that are made with copper and silver at values based on the quantity of their silver content. The Chinese in which government funds and currencies are ordinarily are reckoned, in terms of weight and fineness, differ in weight and value in the different provinces.

The Shanghai mint is not only a great help to the Chinese people, but it is also a great help to the American people. It will produce a uniformity of value, and will be a great help to the Chinese people.
